City's Population Shows Big Jump

Palm Springs Head Count for April Climbs 21.77 Per Cent

Palm Springs' official population has taken a hefty 21.77 per cent jump over the 1960 decennial census figure to 16,400, Vice Mayor Ted McKinney and Charles Kasmer, acting city manager, announced today.

The 1960 Census count was 13,463.

The 16,400 figure, set as of April 1, came from population studies conducted by the State Department of Finance, under the direction of Dr. Carl Frisen, senior population study researcher.

Will Boost Revenue

This means approximately $24,336 additional tax disbursement revenue to Palm Springs, based on an estimated $8.30 per person, McKinney explained. McKinney continued that the increase in the city's official population indicated a strong growth pattern for Palm Springs and the resort area.

The population estimates, made after samples of approximately 300 mobile homes and 1,000 other housing units in March, were prepared by the Real Estate Research Corp. by Edward T. Leutheuser, special studies director, and Wesley T. Chambers. Chambers directed the field work in Palm Springs, and compilation and analysis of data.

Projections Said Low

Francis Crocker, Palm Springs utilities official and instigator of the multi-million dollar Tramway, said that the studies are a trend in the right direction. "I am very thankful for what we have," Crocker said. He pointed out that population projections of the United States Census Bureau indicated a much lower growth rate here.

The study revealed that 70.4 per cent of the sample housing units were occupied, with an average household of 2.91 persons. Mobile homes, 77.6 per cent occupied at sample time, average 1.72 persons each.

No Fact in Move Story

Conjecture that Palm Springs may lose out as spring training home for the Los Angeles Angels Baseball Club is without basis in fact, it was reported today.

Fred Haney, Angels general manager this morning reported: "The Los Angeles Angel organization is most happy with its spring home in Palm Springs and has no intentions of moving the parent club out of the resort city," Haney said.

"Our American League team has enjoyed training in Palm Springs these past two years and we consider the Polo Grounds and the city as our permanent spring home," the Angel General Manager added.

Affirms Support

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy has sent President Romulo Betancourt of Venezuela a message of firm support and congratulations for crushing the revolt in his country this week.

Charge JFK Officials Aiding Ted

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (UPI) — Ted Kennedy's political opponents charged that the Kennedy administration has turned on the heat here to help him win the Democratic nomination for U.S. senator.

The Democratic state convention opens today with Kennedy seeking the nomination against Edward J. McCormack Jr., nephew of House Speaker John W. McCormack. Both are backed by powerful Massachusetts machines, both are young and aggressive and both have the asset of being Irish Catholics.

But the fight is getting rough and Irish eyes aren't smiling here today.

McCormack has been charging for a week that the Kennedy administration, while outwardly keeping hands off, actually has been going all out for Ted. But not until the eve of the convention did he get specific.

Resigns Federal Post

He said William C. Hartigan had resigned as assistant U.S. postmaster general to come here to campaign for Kennedy and that three delegates from North Adams have been promised the job of local postmaster.

McCormack said he had documentary evidence of Kennedy administration pressure on the delegates and that some of it would jeopardize President Kennedy's chances for reelection. But when he was asked to produce it, he declined.

"I don't want to win the election for United States senator and lose the presidency for the Democratic party in 1964 or have my documents used as campaign material in 1964," he said.

It is difficult for an outsider to understand why tempers are running so high because the winner in this convention will not necessarily be the Democratic nominee for U.S. senator.

The loser can enter the primary in the fall and doubtless will.

District Runoff Race Undecided

Absentee ballots, being counted today in Riverside, apparently will decide between O.R. (Don) Crabtree and Leonard Wolf Jr. as the run-off election candidate to oppose William W. Cook next November for the Fourth District.

GOP Claims 'Leadership Bankruptcy'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congressional Republicans today accused President Kennedy's administration of "bankruptcy of leadership" in foreign affairs and of destroying confidence at home.

In foreign policy, they said "the overriding national goal must be victory over communism."

On the domestic front, they proposed an overhaul of the federal tax system, a balanced budget and a halt in the rise in federal spending, tax relief to encourage the use of private health insurance and "selective federal assistance" for education.

The seven-page GOP policy statement, a campaign platform for the 1962 congressional elections, was drafted by a 12-member committee and approved today by caucuses of all Republicans in the House and Senate.

It included this harsh indictment of administration foreign policy:

"Despite this nation's position as the most powerful on earth, the bankruptcy of its leadership was shown at critical times in the past year. It was shown in Berlin and Cuba. It was shown in the hesitancy to resume nuclear testing when our national security demanded it. It was shown in the bluster followed by whimpering in respect to Laos..."

Aide Fired For Leaks On Estes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House subcommittee investigating the Billie Sol Estes case has fired a Republican aide for leaking confidential information to newsmen, a highly placed Republican source said today.

The source said that both Republican and Democratic members of the subcommittee had agreed to fire Robert Manuel, GOP minority counsel to the House operations subcommittee.

The subcommittee is headed by Rep. L.H. Fountain, D-N.C.

The group met in executive session today. When the meeting broke up for a quorum call in the House, the Republican source said Manuel had been given a dismissal notice. The source said GOP committee members agreed to "go along" with the Democrats on the matter.

Manuel told UPI he gave the Herald Tribune an Agriculture Department report on Estes that was stamped confidential. He said his position on the committee still was undecided but that he "guessed" he would be fired.

As for the Estes report, Manuel said he could see no reason for the administration to refuse to turn it over to Texas Atty. Gen. Will Wilson and a Texas grand jury.

City Manager Is 'Doing Fine'

Palm Springs City Manager Dan Wagner is "coming along fine" in an uneventful convalescence from a minor heart attack, Desert Hospital officials reported today. Doctors said complete recovery is indicated and that he will be able to return to work, but they declined to estimate the length of his illness.

OAS Terrorist At Work Again Following Truce

ALGIERS (UPI) — A Secret Army Organization (OAS) machine gun squad opened fire on a group of Moslem workers in the Hussein-Dey area today less than 12 hours after it announced the end of its week-long one-sided truce in Algiers.

Three of the Moslems died on the spot, and less than an hour later another Moslem was shot and killed.

The OAS announced the end of its self-imposed cease-fire Wednesday night and less than an hour later two plastic bombs blew up part of the Hussein-Dey post office. Early this morning a group of armed men set another charge which further wrecked the building.

Planners Okay Project for $10 Million

By PEYTON CANARY

The $10 million Desert Inn development planned for mid-town Palm Springs by owners George Alexander and Samuel Firks passed its first official hurdle Wednesday, when the city planning commission passed the entire request package.

The planning action — actually a recommendation to the city council, subject to public hearings and formal action — was taken before a full-house audience in the city council chambers. Present were Alexander, planner - architect Charles Luckman, and planning specialist Otto Killian, a top Luckman associate.

One Dissenting Vote

Included in the commission's 6-1 approval were the planned 90-foot, eight-story hotel which will tie into the western foothills 800 feet west of North Palm Canyon Drive; zone changes for 12.19 acres of R-3 hotel and apartment zoning for the hotel and possible future deluxe suite units C-1a commercial zoning for a total of 7.18 acres of land, plus a conditional use permit for a planned 1,000 person convention center.

Planning Commission Chairman John Miller told The Desert Sun that "this is the first time that any town has made such a drastic change in one meeting." He emphasized the action was keyed by the "nature of the project, including the fact that the hotel is up against the mountain."

Termed Departure

Miller termed the new development, "a departure from Palm Springs living," but stressed that "we hope to keep some of the Palm Springs character in the multi-million dollar program."

Plans for the Desert Inn project are still in study stages, Miller said. He pointed out that the actual plan development, including all site development, can be closely coordinated with city planning.

Change Suggested

A major change suggested by Planning Director Richard Coleman, and adopted by the commission, was a flip of the hotel and convention center orientation, to put the convention hall and auxiliary facilities north of the hotel. The hotel may be moved northward a few feet, to keep it away from residential property which is 40 to 45 feet south of the proposed hotel site.

Public Road Urged

Coleman suggested that the wide entrance road which will lead to the hotel from North Palm Canyon Drive, crossing the extension of Belardo Road which Alexander has agreed to provide access to the property, should be public to Belardo Road.

Coleman said that policing of the entry street would be impossible unless it is formally dedicated to the city, and that traffic is bound to be generated from the new through-route on Belardo.

Planning Commission Member Richard Foster cast the single dissenting vote, because of questions about the need for the additional commercial property west from North Palm Canyon Drive.

Foreign Aid Spending in Hot Trouble

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Undersecretary of State George W. Ball said today that denying aid to Communist Yugoslavia would constitute a "no win" policy in the cold war because it would dash all hope for pro-Western elements there.

Ball made the statement before a Senate subcommittee less than 24 hours after the Senate adopted an amendment aimed at Poland and Yugoslavia, which would ban aid for all Communist-dominated nations.

The State Department official was replying to questions by Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., who has leveled the "no win" charge at State Department policy.

In Reply

Senate Democratic leaders hoped to muster enough votes to turn back a second challenge to President Kennedy's $4.6 billion aid bill — a proposal by Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper, R-Iowa, to trim $400 million from the measure.

Party leader Mike Mansfield, Mont., said he would do his best to defeat the Hickenlooper move. Ball, a witness before the Senate subcommittee which has been studying alleged muzzling military leaders, asked for a few minutes to put the Yugoslav question "in perspective."

Although he did not specifically mention Wednesday's Senate action, Ball said the United States, in an era of nuclear stalemate, must "work with the great historic trends which I am convinced are working on our side."

This means, he said, working towards opening up the closed Communist societies.

'Yugoslavs Proud'

Ball said the Yugoslavs are a "proud people" who have developed an economic system quite different from standard Communist doctrine. Yugoslavia does 70 per cent of its trade with Western nations, the Yugoslav state does not own all property, and "Western ideas flow in" by unjammed radio, he said.

China Boycotts Soviet Summit

MOSCOW (UPI) — Communist China today was reported boycotting the Soviet bloc summit conference from which Albania has been banned.

While the conference was called to cope with economic problems and the challenge of the European Common Market, the absence of China and Albania indicated that the still-simmering

Moscow-Peking rift may be high on the agenda.

The conference opened Wednesday with government heads and Communist party chiefs in attendance from the Soviet Union, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Romania, Bulgaria and East Germany. Details of the closed session in the Kremlin were not disclosed.

The Communist leaders were assembled as a plenary session of the Council for Mutual Economic Assistance which co-ordinates industrial development and trade within the Soviet bloc.

The presence of the Communist world's top figures indicated the conference would extend its discussions beyond economic problems to such key issues as Berlin and Germany, disarmament, rapprochement with Yugoslavia, and the Kremlin's ideological differences with Peking and Albania.

Albania, a member, was excluded from the conference, presumably because of its ideological break with Moscow last fall.

Albania and Communist China disagree with the Soviet leadership on the de-Stalinization process and the Western posture vis-a-vis the West.

Section 14 Zone Meet On Today

The second in a series of long-range Section 14 zoning plans began at 10 a.m. today in city hall between representatives of the Agua Caliente Indian Tribal Council and Palm Springs.

"We may evolve two new zones," planning commission representative Robson Chambers, architect, reported. Vice Mayor Ted McKinney confirmed that the zones under study include a restrictive commercial zone for spacious, expensive business developments along Tahquitz - McCallum Way, and a high-rise hotel and apartment zone formula.

"We of course want to work out something that will protect people who already have leases, so that they may develop their property," McKinney said.

The plan proposed by Stewart Williams May 28 would require pooling of many small allotments into sites for large acreage developments. The Indians, and tribal attorney Ray Simpson, indicated probable cooperation by tribal members for the long-range plan. Simpson was absent from today's meeting because of appointments in Washington, D.C. Mrs. Viola Olinger, former tribal chairman, was out of town on another meeting today.

City representatives included Council members McKinney and Harry Paisley, with planning commission representatives Chambers, William Foster, a contractor, and possibly William Cody, architect. Cody had to miss the first meeting because of other commitments. Councilman Kenneth Kirk, a member of the council delegation, is currently attending a Rotary Club convention.

Russian Friend Of Band Men Under Arrest

MOSCOW (UPI) — A Russian who became friendly with some members of Benny Goodman's touring jazz orchestra was arrested Wednesday night by Soviet police in the Black Sea resort of Sochi.

Reports reaching here said the incident took place in front of the Primorskaya Hotel while the man was talking to some of the musicians.

The man who was arrested was identified only as an employee of a local television station. Police officers confiscated a book from the man and took some pictures from his companion.

"It shows weakness on their part," Goodman said when informed of the incident.

State GOP Sets Sights On Unity Behind Nixon

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Republicans aimed for unity behind Richard M. Nixon today while Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown said he would pitch his November campaign for re-election both at Democrats and "progressive Warren Republicans."

Nixon, the former vice president who almost won the presidency in 1960, and Brown will meet Nov. 6 to decide who becomes governor of the nation's most populated state.

Democrats were jubilant over the fact that Assemblyman Joseph C. Shell, running as a conservative, polled almost one GOP vote for every two for Nixon in the primary. Since Democrats outnumbered Republicans by 3-2, Nixon needs every Republican vote he can get in November plus a sizeable number of Democrats to oust Brown.

Top Republicans from National Chairman William E. Miller on down sounded the harmony theme.

Near Death, Now Set to Hit Hoffa

WASHINGTON (UPI) — David Probst, who was produced by the FBI Wednesday a few hours before he would have been legally dead, was expected to testify before a federal grand jury today on his dealings with Teamster president James R. Hoffa.

Probst, an Indianapolis attorney, disappeared seven years ago Wednesday after telling a friend he was in "great danger." Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy announced that the FBI found him after a "wide and painstaking search." He said Probst was cooperating with the investigation into the State Cab Co. in Indianapolis, which he ran with funds provided through Hoffa.

Probst appeared outside the grand jury room in custody of U.S. deputy marshals Wednesday. At midnight Wednesday night, he would have been legally presumed dead had he not appeared. He disappeared without fully repaying a $8,000 loan Hoffa made to him to start the taxicab company.

The grand jury was reported to be investigating possible violation of federal laws against perjury, conspiracy, obstruction of justice and subornation of perjury in the Probst case. The last-named crime consists of convincing others to lie under oath. Kennedy declined to tell newsmen how, when or where Probst was tracked down.

Odd-Shaped Letters Out Next Year

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Post Office Department today notified the general public that come next year it will have nothing to do with odd-shaped letters.

The department said it was issuing a reminder since a previous announcement was carried primarily in trade papers.

Under the regulation, mail less than 3 inches high or 4 1/2 inches long will be banned starting Jan. 1, 1963. It must meet both the height and length minimum standards.

The department said it was also banning pieces of mail "that are not of the normal rectangular shape." It gave as examples, postcards in the shape of autos and animals.

The reason for the regulation is mechanization. The department pointed out that its new automatic canceling machines have a great deal of trouble with letters that aren't of a standard size.

It Could Have Been Last Year For One Mother

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich. (UPI) — For Mrs. Gloria Clark, 21, Utica, Mich., it could have been last year.

She was patient No. 5,359 at St. Joseph Hospital here Wednesday the same number she had June 6, 1961.

At exactly 4:47 a.m. she gave birth to a son, the same time she gave birth to a son last year.

Her husband, John, 22, is employed by the Fisher Body Division of General Motors Corp. His job is to keep production on schedule.

Renewed Accreditation for Palm High School Recognizes Progress

Renewed accreditation of Palm Springs High School will result from commendations and recommendations of a visiting committee of the California Association of Secondary School Administrators.

The accreditation will continue recognition of the school's progress begun with accreditation under Dr. Charles Webster, former principal.

A September 1960 letter to Webster advised that the accreditation for the school, made after an "excellent report concerning the progress the high school has made," would be extended to June 30, 1962.

Continuing Study

The new accreditation, for a period from one to five years, is expected to bring continuing thorough study of the school curriculum by the district board, superintendent of schools, director of instructional services, and faculty members.

Members of the visiting committee who spent a three-day visit on the campus were Dr. Elsie Gibbs, University of Redlands Dr. R. C. Van Wagenin, chief of the business education division, State Department of Education; DeGraft Platte, curriculum coordinator, San Diego County Schools; Donald C. Cruickshank, principal of Fullerton Union High School.

Follow-up

Their visit was a follow-up on a study evaluation made five years ago of Palm Springs High School, and an analysis of the weaknesses discovered at that time and any indications of their diminution. Prior weaknesses, according to the committee, have been largely corrected. In 1957, the school had no counseling staff; records of students were non-existent.

What was considered major weaknesses then are now a vital part of the school program. Other commendations were for the science curricula which are well organized, specific, and varied as well as for the science teachers for their interest in self-improvement; through advanced training, a strong academic program in mathematics for regular pre-college students; a music department with competent and enthusiastic staff members, and a program understood and accepted by the community; an industrial arts course, with well equipped shops.

Languages

Excellent training and background of staff members in the foreign language department; an English department with a willingness to become involved in the experimental team teaching approach, and the involvement of the English department chairman in curriculum matters at the District level. The use of outside consultants and the evaluation and development of curriculum as initiated at the district level.

Other commendations were given in the program in agriculture, in art, in business education, physical education, and social studies.

Recommendations included serious attention to a study of the program for the academically talented. In the written report there is evidence that the committee finds a need to update and enrich the academic program.

Recommendations

It recommended that consideration be given to language laboratories and the use of instructional tapes in foreign language study, a re-examination of the English department, and provisions for the "More Capable Learner", a program in mathematics for the highly gifted student, as well as in the social studies department.

Other needs recommended were for an advanced agricultural program; gymnastics and combative programs in physical education; a physical exam for each student; and discontinuation of sharing physical educational facilities with the junior high school.

A continued study in the occupational program, particularly as it relates to distributive education, and a work coordination program is recommended. The committee found a need in this area for a course in marketing, a need for a close relation with the College of the Desert, a graphic arts and auto shop program.

Interpretation

In interpreting the written study of the board of education and parents at a board meeting, the principal of the high school, Dr. Austin Sellery, reported that the committee found that there is evidence of a lack of administrative, supervisory and coordinative time to execute the needed functions within the school.

The high school staff indicates in the report a need and desire for a more active responsibility at the school and department level for curriculum evaluation and development; more study on guides for teachers; a continuing research on course of study for inservice training courses; continued consideration of ways to develop effective means of communication between teachers, administrators, and district staff concerning curriculum needs and decisions regarding course requirements.

In giving an oral report on the committee's written report, Dr. Sellery interspersed his own thoughts and ideas frequently. He pointed out that the language laboratory and taped lessons are a new innovation in foreign language study. "It takes $40,000 to equip a foreign language laboratory," he said. "The change in teaching techniques in foreign language pursuit," he added, "have resulted in great improvements. The linguistic approach teaches students to learn to speak and understand the language far more fluently and rapidly." In the field of mathematics a full sized revolution is underway, Dr. Sellery reported.

"Ten years from now the Math teacher of today, unless he keeps up with the modern approach, will be obsolete".

In reference to the agricultural program principal Sellery said there was great need for an advanced course in agriculture. He reported that the city of Palm Springs has leased land for 5 years, opposite the present High School plot, for additional agricultural projects. "This will enable the classes to study grafting, and other experimental problems greatly needed by desert area students, such as ornamental horticulture".

Sellery emphasized the need at Palm Springs High School for a course in distributive education. "We have a new faculty member next September from Pittsburg, Pa., with a credential in this area. This business program is a wonderful link between business and school. A student begins to feel a coordination of his work in class with what he is doing on the job, or will do. At present we do not fit the student to the job we do not follow up. All this we need to do".

Tram Towers to Start Up Soon

Steel for the first tower of the the fact and photo file for the Palm Springs Aerial Tramway is expected to arrive within 30 days, Ralph Tudor of Tudor Engineering told members of the Mt. San Jacinto Winter Park Authority at their monthly meeting.

Foundations for the first two towers are being prepared now, and erection of tower No. 1, highest (200 feet) of the five towers, will begin soon after the steel arrives.

Cliff Brown, vice-president of McFadden and Eddy Associates, public relations representatives for the Tramway, reported that the tram model has been altered, and will be unveiled to the Los Angeles press at a conference Thursday, June 14. Several members of the authority will attend.

Brown also told the group that

Fire Small, But Led to An Arrest

A burning mattress led to an arrest on traffic violations in Palm Springs early this morning.

The mattress caught fire at 2331 Palm Canyon Drive and an officer rushed to the scene, called the fire department and reported to headquarters the names of the occupants.

Firemen put out the fire, and the police department found two warrants for the arrest of one of the occupants, William S. Ford, who went to jail, then was released on bail. The other occupant, Guy Young was hospitalized with minor burns.

Social Security Law Changes Explained

"You don't have to retire to collect some of your social security benefits," reports Ramon Majaj-Bernardino District Office.

"A recent change in the social security law makes it possible for many persons between the ages of 62 and 72 to earn as much as $1,200 a year and still be able to collect benefits."

A beneficiary who earns more than $1,200 a year, gives up one dollar for every two dollars earned. Over $1,700 he gives up a matching one dollar of benefits. However, he may draw full benefits for any month he does not earn wages of more than $100 provided that he is not self-employed or over 72."

LOS ANGELES (UPI) —It may be because they need the money but the school board has granted permission to Wilfred Takasato, 34, to dig for buried Spanish gold at the McDonald Avenue Elementary School.

It added two conditions. Takasato must restore the property to its original state — and give the school district half of anything he finds.

Stock Market Crash Blamed On Women

Neophyte women investors are being blamed by Wall Street experts for last week's stock market plunge. The Insider's Newsletter said today.

Market analysts casting around for a likely scapegoat for the nose-dive theorize that the wave of selling was spearheaded by jumpy women customers, according to the Newsletter.

One broker, Wilbur H. Teepe, vice president of Merrill, Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Smith, said on television that 75 per cent of the sell orders he received on "Black Monday" (and no buy orders) came from panic-stricken female investors.

Mrs. Ruth Hagy, vice president of Shareholders of America, conceded that most of the heavy selling did come from unseasoned investors and that women formed a large part of this group.

More than 52 per cent of stock wealth is owned by women, she said, but they often merely hold the stocks in their names rather than actively tangle with the bear and bull.

"We are launching a broad program of economic education for women," Mrs. Hagy said, "to keep the small shareholder from mass, nervous selling."

She blamed the slide on heavy trading restrictions that inhibit professional investors from stabilizing the market when worried amateurs start to run.

Following last year's initial success of the "Toyland" presentation, The Dance Workshop of Palm Springs will present a children's Dance Recital, "Springtime Fantasy" produced by Mrs. Frank Johnson, dance instructor.

The entire production, composed of children from the desert area, will be staged at the Ramon Trailer Park Recreation Hall on Ramon Road at 8 p.m. tonight.

The public is cordially invited to attend. There is no admission.

AT KIDDIE KOLLEGE

Tots Graduate with Honors

It's been proved that "You're never too old to learn," but an ambitious group of 18 pre-school Kiddie Kollege students proved the converse was true, when they were graduated with honors and wearing traditional mortarboards and gowns.

Receiving cash awards for their excellent records in pre-primary education were valedictorian Thurman Arnold Jr., an outstanding math student; salutatorian Chuckie Ross, who learned to habla espanol to perfection; George Vines, a reader par excellence; Susie Scott, the most-improved student; and Judy Rounkies, most-popular among her classmates.

Others completing their first step on the educational ladder were Paul Shoen, Monte Dill, Mike Prieto, Steve Laythe, Dale Healy, John Kearney and John Lamons. Also, John Sellery, Marcella Dupler, Tony Hoffman, Cindy Larson, Erin McManus and LuAnn Steger.

Following the issuance of hand-inscribed, parchment diplomas, parents and graduates were served punch and cookies by Edith Ritter, Kiddie Kollege director and Pat Higgins, teacher.

Fabrics Change

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—Fashion's big change for fall and winter 1962 lies with developments in fabric more than in change of silhouette.

As shapes go, women's apparel remains basically the same natural one that the nation's No. 1 garment center provided in spring collections—Waistline natural, shoulders unpadded, skirts with enough ease for walking and sitting, and skirt lengths continuing to end at the middle of the knee cap.

These are the trends midway in the previews of new collections—previews to continue solidly through mid-June. The clothes will begin to show in the stores by late July.

Watch for the superlatives to roll when the subject of fabric surface and fabric luxury comes up.

New Fabrics Used

"The news is in the new fabrics—all surface interest, bubbly, textured," said manufacturer Edward Abbott at the opening of his collection Thursday.

Tweeds are so nubby they're called cobblestone. Lacy wools are so airy they're billed as chiffon souffles. Mohairs are so long hair they're called llama wools. And there is such an abundance of over-all jewel treatment of fabrics for evening wear these dresses shouldn't ever be discarded the handwork in them makes them museum pieces.

Oleg Cassini, who designs for Mrs. John F. Kennedy, produced a mass of new fabric treatments in his wholesale collection Thursday.

Charro embroidery, copied from the decorative scroll on a Mexican cowboy's regalia, banded wool costumes for day. These many with Mexican-style bolero jackets, were inspired by the President and first lady's forthcoming trip south of the border.

Features Laotian Silks

Cassini included a group of floor length formals made of Laotian silks—most of these bordered at the hem in hand-painted flower or peasant designs. These, he said, were successors to the Indian sari which several firms have Americanized.

"I am showing a new, elegant, simple silhouette that indicates the body without showing it," said Cassini, who has made the bulk of the first lady's wardrobe since the inauguration.

"The line is easy with skirts slightly lengthened," he "lengthened" skirts still hit the models at the kneecap.

Cassini, always the clown in doing a fashion commentary, opened his show with a brown suit—in the same color as his French poodle, Murphy. The model carried Murphy down the runway and Cassini asked the dog what he thought of the clothes. The dog howled.

Cassini translation: "Great lection."

Better Understanding Needed

Armchair strategists are a dime a dozen the day after election. Thus it is that there are many and varied explanations of the failure of the Tuesday bond issue of the Palm Springs Unified School District, some making a lot of sense and many others trivial and personal.

With all of the opinions flying around and obscuring the air like sand on Ramon Road, it's easy and excusable to lose sight of the essential considerations. To The Desert Sun, the essentials look like this:

1. Everyone, save the lunatic fringe, wishes his children to have the finest education possible.
 2. Nearly everyone is willing to pay his fair share of the costs of education.
 3. Practically no one knows what is a fair gross cost, let alone his proportionate fair share.
 4. Into this vacuum flows a mass of truths, half truths, misinformation and emotional opinion.
 5. Faced with a lack of communication and understanding, and a mounting tax bill, John Q. Citizen follows the maxim of, "When in doubt, don't."
- This lack of communication between school systems and the public is not unique to Palm Springs. Other districts have their problems, too, and their lost elections. Seemingly, the only thing in common between nearly all administrators and most school boards and the communities they serve, is a desire to educate the child. From that fine base the paths diverge.

The public always wants and is entitled to know all of what's going on in its school system. Too often it is fed, or believes it is fed, only that information which has been previously primed, polished and presented by its administrator.

For example, the local school district has in its Policies, Rules and Regulations, Section 141, an edict which says, "For the purpose of informing the public on school activities, all news originating with the Palm Springs Unified School District staff shall be released through the office of the superintendent of schools."

This is wartime censorship in time of peace and while it may not have produced a war, yesterday's vote certainly amounted to a voters' insurrection.

Certainly neither the school administration nor the school board wishes the role either of a patient father or a stern and bitter adversary to the community. Nor do the tax-paying citizens wish to carp at or curtail the efficacy of their school system.

An informed public is the best guardian of democracy. An informed public, too will pay the necessary tab for its democratic institutions.

We Can't Do Everything

It is high time the illusion was dissipated, that increases in defense spending are almost entirely responsible for late-year jumps in total federal spending.

Between fiscal 1955 and fiscal 1963, Tax Foundation tells us, defense spending increased by 30 per cent—going from $41 billion to $53 billion. In that same period all other federal spending soared 68 per cent—more than twice as much, in percentage terms—going from $24 billion to $40 billion.

Much of the increase can be accounted for by federal aid to state and local governments—aid which goes to pay for a thousand and one projects these governments used to provide for themselves or, considering them unnecessary, didn't provide at all. An average of 14 cents out of every dollar of state and local government financing in fiscal 1960 came from the U.S. Treasury. Total: Almost $7 billion—enough to buy quite a quantity of weapons, or to bring about a noticeable dent in taxes.

It doesn't look as if we can make ourselves militarily secure in this dog-eat-dog world, maintain the value of the dollar, and finance an endlessly demanding Welfare State—all at the same time.

HOLMES ALEXANDER:

It's Time to Lead from Strength

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Scott Carpenter's orbital flight was not extraordinarily spectacular or newsworthy as such things go, but it may be a convenient check-point at which we can say that history has now definitely entered a new epoch.

Carpenter proved that the previous flights of Shepard, Grissom and Glenn were not just lucky accidents, and that the USA can go on doing these things as long as we like—and do them better than any nation on earth.

This last was something we had reason to doubt back in the days of the first Russian Sputnik and Space penetrations. But now that we have put our minds and money to the work, we have every right to feel that ours is a better country and a better system than Russia and Communism, and that the system which cracks under the stress of competition is far more likely to be theirs than ours.

And Communism "is" cracking—the signs are everywhere. We know that Khrushchev has all but ruptured the Soviet economy in achieving the first showy scientific victories and maintaining a gluttonous military machine. We know that the East German satellite has its hand out to the West for alms and that the whole attempt to make Soviet "colonies" of Eastern European states is a failure.

More sensationally, Red China is coming apart. Famine has resulted from the grandiose plans of collective agriculture. Industrial production in Continental China is reliably reported to be sinking. The Communist experiment in Cuba shows the same symptoms of failure that are evident in the big Red concentrations of Europe and Asia. These in short, are hard times for the Marxists, and, correspondingly, these are times when all the free, capitalist nations, East and West, are prospering.

But in the midst of life there is death—and in these happy circumstances for the West there is danger of swift reversal of fortune. The peril takes two conspicuous forms—first, that the Free World's success gives encouragement to pacifist-coexistence spokesmen; second, that the pitiful plight of starving Communist nations appeals to our sentimentalists.

The Fulbright Memorandum of last year remains the chief encouragement of statesmen who feel that, both at home and abroad, we should not be fiercely anti-Communist. This attitude, usually described as "the soft line," is scornful of persons and ideas that are too much for free enterprise and too ardent in patriotism. The Memo contained an article from the Bulletin of Atomic Scientists which strongly opposed the "hard line" against Communism in foreign affairs. With things going so well for the West, it will be easier to sell the perilous theory that a famished, ill-tempered, desperate enemy is not much threat to our fat and happy Western societies.

The sentimentalists, or the bleeding hearts, are already back in the saddle of Administration policy after taking a hard tumble when the President ignored them and resumed atmospheric nuclear testing. But the admission of "a few thousand" hungry refugees from Red China is a bad sign.

The easiest thing we can do is to offer food and hospitality to Communist victims, but it is not the best thing. We would have done the best thing for Hungary in 1956 if we'd had the nerve to overthrow the Red regime instead of flying a few hundred fugitives to New Jersey. We would have served humanity better if we had supported the counter-attack against Castro in 1961 instead of wallowing in "humane" projects like tractors - for - prisoners and more recent forms of ransom.

At the moment, the enemy is weak and we are strong. Will we use this opportunity to push strong policies? Or will we use it to mush around with soft ones?

One skirmish in the war against smog appears to have been won by our side - our side being made up of people who breathe.

The State Motor Vehicle Pollution Control Board has ordered that starting a year from now all cars of 1961 or later vintage belonging to Californians must be equipped with a device to eliminate chemical emissions from the crankcase.

The automobile, of course, is a major villain in the smog story. Manufacturers and government agencies were slow in making an all-out attack on fumes from the family car.

California and the industry now have a promising campaign underway, however. The crankcase device is just the first step. About 60 per cent of the fumes the average car pumps into the air comes from exhaust. The State Board is pressing for development of a practical device for controlling this smog source.

Future regulations, too, must take in the truck as well as the smaller automobile.

Progress in this program cannot be rapid enough.

(Beverly Hills Citizen-News)

Why do we hear so much about high school dropouts now? After all, the problem of youngsters not finishing high school has been with us from the start. And probably the percentage of those dropping out is not higher than it was in years past.

There are a couple of important reasons why we hear so much and those same reasons are why every possible effort should be made to keep boys and girls from stopping high school before they get a diploma.

First, our society has become so complex, and so automated that the low skill of a non-high school graduate gives a youngster a very poor chance at a job of any kind. Secondly in recent years our economy has registered county - wide unemployment of several million even in highly prosperous times.

That is why there is so much attention to dropouts. Their plight is so much more miserable than it used to be.

Everyone who is doing something to help youngsters finish their high school education is doing a good thing for the boys and girls and for the entire community. This anti-dropout campaign is one in which every person possible should help.

THIS SIDE Of The Sun

R. F. "Phat" GRAETTINGER

Tonight I'll be hearing
The song of the rail,
In the meantime, let's look
At some of this mail.

As you read this, I'm somewhere up in Cajon Pass looking out the window of the dome lounge. But as I write this, I'm still in my office-lounge-den-bedroom at home. And there's no if-and-when about it. It's now. Because at The Sun office they want it—now.

(The thought of everybody slaving over hot typewriters there gives me a sadistic feeling of well-being. The only deadline I've got is 6:05 p.m. Thursday, the date of departure.)

I'M REALLY not going over the mail. Just some scribbles. But if I'd said "let's look at some of these notes" it would have knocked the you-know-what out of that rhyme.

But here goes. You know that feature "Remember When" on this page daily except Saturday and Sunday?

Twice in one week it registered a big bang.

FIRST OFF, there was that item from The Sun of 20 years ago which told about a man named Bill Colburn who went to the Palm Springs Bowling Academy one night and rolled a perfect score — 300. Twelve straight strikes.

He was still happy about that when he went over to O'Donnell Golf Club the next morning and—wham! He stroked a hole-in-one. Either feat is something that happens to few men but he got 'em both in 12 hours.

THE OTHER DAY, Larry Sitter of O'Donnell calls me. He wants a dozen or so of the papers that reprinted that item of 1942.

"Bill Colburn is here, used to live here but lives in Santa Fe Springs now. He wants some of those papers to show his friends."

"No, sorry, he didn't shoot a hole-in-one today. No, I don't think he bowled last night."

THEN THERE was that item reprinted from the Sun of 30 years ago, 1932. About a carpenter named Gus Young who was sleeping on a cot at the old airport with its dirt runways and all, somewhere back of El Mirador.

A flight of airplanes from March Field came in and as they landed, Young woke up with a yell and got the blades out of there.

But before he could, said The Sun of 1932, a wing of the lead plane whacked him and broke an arm.

THE DAY AFTER that "Remember When" item appeared in 1962 Hank Reynolds of San Marino and Palm Desert called. "Man, what a flock of memories that one brought back!" he said "I was in the second plane in that formation. Was at March Field in 1932."

"That was a miracle if I ever saw one. Young ran right through that whirling prop during the fraction of a second that it was perpendicular. A broken arm from a wing. He could have been chewed to bits. Thanks for reminding me of a thriller."

Dear Abby...

DEAR ABBY: I want to know if I am wrong in feeling very much annoyed over this incident. I recently called on a friend (by invitation) and I had only an hour to spend with her. While I was there (I hadn't been there ten minutes), her telephone rang. It was a mutual friend and not a long-distance call. My hostess hung on the phone for twenty minutes, making small talk, while I just sat there twiddling my thumbs and getting madder by the minute. She knew I had only an hour to spend with her. What should I have done? —STUMPED

DEAR STUMPED: You should have "stumped" out after the first five minutes.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter-in-law has just informed me that she doesn't want me or my husband spending too much time with our grandchildren (ages 2 and 5) because she doesn't want them picking up our "accents."

We are foreign-born, Miss Abby, and do have foreign accents, but I don't think this is any reason to keep the children away from us, do you? Once a week for one hour, I was told, was our limit. She said this in front of my son, and he didn't even open his mouth to defend us. What should we do? —FOREIGN ACCENTS

DEAR FOREIGN: There is nothing to do except to abide by her wishes if you want to see your grandchildren. You can only feel sorry for such an unperceptive woman, and pity your son, who is obviously acting under her orders. Pray they wake up before it's too late.

DEAR ABBY: My husband's sister wants to come and live with us and go to school. There are better schools in her home town. She is a divorcee and has two children and is not yet 20. I have children, too. This has upset me something terrible, Abby. I don't have the nerve to write and tell her not to come, and yet I know if she were to come it would not work out. What shall I do? —NERVOUS

DEAR NERVOUS: Let your husband tell her. It's "his" sister.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "Missing Something": What you are missing you can live without. Count your blessings. No woman has everything.

Still worrying about the same old problem? Write to Abby for a personal reply. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

THE LIGHTER SIDE

Even Without Schooling, There's Cause for Hope

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) —At its 163rd commencement exercise Monday, Georgetown University bestowed a "litteratum humaniorum doctorem, honoris causa" on a scholarly chap identified as Leslie Towns.

But since the yellow tassel dangling from his black academic cap didn't hide his ski-slide nose, the audience was able to recognize him as Bob Hope.

Towns was the name that Hope signed to his English themes back yonder when he was struggling to finish high school. He didn't make it, so he enrolled in dancing school instead.

He wasn't a very good dancer, either, but that didn't stop him from reaching the top in the academic world. At the tender age of 49, which he must have reached about the time he quit high school, he already has received two honorary degrees.

Made People Laugh

The one presented to him by Georgetown U. was in recognition of his ability to make people laugh, which isn't taught in schools.

The citation inscribed on his scroll as an honorary doctor of humane letter noted that he had "consistently lent his considerable talents to innumerable humanitarian causes for the relief of the needy and the assistance of the afflicted."

The citation was written in Latin and Hope said "I can't wait until I get home and have my son read it to me."

This was a reference to Anthony Hope, 22, who was graduated with honors as a bachelor of arts at the same ceremony.

"I'm very proud of Tony," Hope said. "He can write home for money in five languages."

As for himself, Hope acknowledged that he was a bit unaccustomed to the scholarly environment.

"I feel as out of place as President Kennedy at a meeting of the American Medical Association," he said.

Harvard Nearest School

In fact, Hope said he was surprised to learn that Georgetown U. was located in Washington. He said he had the impression "that Harvard was the nearest school."

The only way he could account for his being honored with an honorary degree was that the Catholic educators who operate the university "specialize in miracles."

He said his advice to the young graduates about to go out into the world was "don't go." He said he "went out last week, took a look at the stock market and came right back."

Steel stock dropped so low that "even President Kennedy bought some," he said.

I would have thought that Hope's remarks to the graduates were impromptu except that before the ceremony he disclosed that he had a script hidden under his black robe.

I suspect that he had a gag writer hidden under there, too.

QUOTES

SEATTLE, Wash. — Secretary of State Dean Rusk, emphasizing the need for cooperation between the United States and Russia in space exploration:

"The frontiers of space might be pierced by huge nuclear-propelled dreadnaughts armed with thermonuclear weapons. The moon might be turned into a military base."

MOSCOW — Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev, upon leaving the Benny Goodman Jazz concert:

"I don't understand jazz, but I enjoyed the concert."

'Peep Sight' Tourney At Marine Corps Base

TWENTYNINE PALMS — The Fourth Quarter Marine Corps Base intramural rifle and pistol tournament is being held at the base rifle range, according to base bulletin. Today was Match Day for the contestants, with the caps bursting at 1 p.m. for the rifle-men. Pistol firing began at 7 a.m.

Practice firing has been conducted at the base ranges from May 27, with the "peep sighters" snapping in under the California sun.

According to range officials all units aboard the base have an entry for this quarter with the hopes of gaining those winning points needed for the Commanding General's Trophy for the fiscal year 1962.

Chief of Staff, Col. Wilson F. Humphreys, has appointed Maj. William F. Feller as Headquarters and Service Company, Marine Corps Base as the Match Executive Officer.

Sports In a Capsule

Teams will not be the only entities vying for the awards to be given to the high scores. "Individuals who are members of competing teams are encouraged to compete for individual awards," states the base bulletin.

To handle the many shooters who will be "squeezing" away till the end of the match, the 1st Field Artillery Group has provided 101 men to keep the targets high in the air for the shooters.

The 1st Light Antiaircraft Missile Battalion will provide 50 men with pencils to record the scores of all the trigger squeezers, with Marine Corps Base providing the men to man the adding machines to calculate the scores recorded by the missilemen.

Scores of Minor League Tilts

Because of graduation week, baseball teams of the Minor League pushed up their scheduled games for tonight and took to the diamond last night which resulted in two very close and exciting games.

Playing errorless ball, the C.V.S.L.A. club collected eight hits to post a 8-3 victory over the Water C. nine in one game and the Jr. Police stickmen edged the Hathaway team, 11-10 in one of the most exciting Minor League tilts staged thus far in the season.

DEFEAT BARSTOW TEAM

29 Palms Marine Racquet Swingers Win, 8-2

TWENTYNINE PALMS — The Base tennis team played and defeated Barstow's best 8 to 2 in a tennis match held last week at the Base courts. Opening up with four straight wins in the singles and finishing with three victories, a sweep, in the doubles, the racqueters proved too strong for the visitors.

Marty Schiller started things rolling with the first victory for the squad defeating Ford 6-2, 6-0. "Doc" Showah, the singles champion, squelched Chavis 6-0, 6-3 while "Howie" Westphall was taking two from the Barstow coach, Haden, 6-2, 6-1.

After J. I. Loy downed Lantz twice by the identical score of 6-3, to give the Base team their fourth in a row, Ken Such suffered the first loss for the home players. After losing the first set 2-6, Such came back strong but couldn't quite overtake his competitor, Sanborn, in losing in a close one 7-9. Christenson put MCB back in the winning column taking two from Coleman 6-3, 6-0, before Joe Huerta fell 3-6, 4-6 to Mikus.

The first doubles match, "Marty Schiller and "Doc" Showah opposing Ford and Chavis, proved to be the tightest match of the day. Dropping the opener 3-6, the two singles winners came storming back 6-2, 8-6, to take it. The Base championship tennis tourney which was held recently proved to be a very exciting event as "Doc" Showah showed good form in whipping T. N. Connors for the singles title. Behind them were Westphall, third, and J. A. French, fourth. In doubles, J. I. Loy and H. Westphall captured first over "Doc" Showah and Ken Such. Taking third place over J. R. Harman and R. P. Capatosto were T. N. Connors and P. A. Patterson.

The Base tennis team will be taking two outings in the near future. They travel to Lake Mead June 8 and 9 for a regularly scheduled match. Shortly thereafter, June 15, 16, and 17, they will travel to Vandenberg Air Force Base

KEN IS 'BOSS MAN'

Angels Edge White Sox In Ninth Inning, 1-0

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Critics of the Chicago White Sox had some justification today in claiming the club missed an opportunity to get a good pitcher—ending up with a bridesmaid instead of a McBride.

The Sox held the contract of Ken McBride through the 1960 season when they deposited it in the draft pool established for formation of the two American League clubs, Washington and Los Angeles.

The Angels took McBride—he's been taking the White Sox ever since.

When Ken blanked Chicago, 1-0, Wednesday night at Chavez Ravine it ran his record against the White Sox to 4-0, including another 1-0 victory this season and two victories last season.

Those twin 1-0 blankings by McBride are the only times Chicago has been shut out in 33 games this season.

Los Angeles and the White Sox were tied 0-0 in the bottom of the ninth when aging Tom Burgess, pinch hitting for Steve Bilko, powered a sacrifice fly to center-field with the bases loaded. Leon Wagner raced in from third with the winning run.

Wagner also shared a part of McBride's other White Sox shutout, hitting a home run that gave the Angels the 1-0 victory. And it also came in the ninth inning.

The victory Wednesday night was McBride's fourth in a row and ran his record to 5-3. It was his second complete game in a row—he whipped the Yankees 6-1 Saturday. McBride hasn't allowed an earned run in the last 18 innings.

Chicago's Ray Herbert (4-3) was matching McBride, having given Los Angeles only three hits and two walks until the ninth. But he walked Wagner with one out. And when Lee Thomas singled to right, Wagner scooted to third. Herbert walked catcher Bob Rodgers intentionally. But Burgess came up and won the game.

"Sure I like to beat the White Sox," McBride smiled after the game. "I don't hate them. But I sure enjoy beating them."

McBride said he relied on his sinker ball and added that the perfection of the pitch has made him a winner again.

Los Angeles hoped that Eli Grba (2-2) would be a winner again when he pitched in the finale of the three-game series against Chicago this afternoon. Juan Pizarro (3-4), who defeated the Angels, 2-1, opening day was to pitch for the Sox.

Dodgers Slip by Pirates, 5 to 3

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Only a game losing streak and gave the Los Angeles Dodgers tonight could take over the National League lead when they battle the errand Pittsburgh Pirates.

The Dodgers picked up a game and a half on first-place San Francisco Wednesday night, by winning a "doubleheader" from Pittsburgh. Los Angeles scored one more run in a game that had been called at the end of eight innings on Tuesday night and finished with an 8-3 victory. In the regularly scheduled game, the Dodgers won 5-3.

The teams hardly had to work up a sweat in completing the final inning of Tuesday night's game—postponed because of the 12:50 a.m. curfew rule with Los Angeles leading, 7-3.

Joe Gibbon who defeated the Dodgers four times last season, was the victim of the Pirate errors in the second game as Los Angeles snapped its jinx against the pitcher.

Veteran Johnny Podres (3-4) was set for mound duties tonight against Harvey Haddix (4-2). Gibbon was the victim of three unearned runs Wednesday night which gave the Pirates a five-game losing streak and gave the Los Angeles Dodgers tonight could take over the National League lead when they battle the errand Pittsburgh Pirates.

Junior Gilliam singled home the first Dodger run in the fourth inning after Norm Sherry got on with a single and Pittsburgh shortstop Dick Groat fumbled Maury Wills' grounder.

Ron Fairly homered into the rightfield stands with Tommy Davis on base to send the Dodgers ahead for keeps, 5-2, in the seventh.

In the resumed action of the suspended second game of Tuesday's doubleheader, Don Drysdale picked up his ninth victory against three losses when ace Sandy Koufax retired three Pirate batters in order. Bob Friend was tagged with his seventh defeat of the season.
